“This is not like other door hardware. These are little bits of sculpture for your doors. This collection is made of lots of different shapes. You can put them in your palazzo, pool house or pavilion. Form vs. function? We think both. Form and function. Ok?”

~ Sans-Arc Studio

Sans-Arc Studio are an award-winning design and architecture firm renowned for creating human-oriented spaces full of wonder and excitement that sit firmly outside of the norm. In partnership with Bankston Architectural, a leading manufacturer of luxury architectural hardware, they have co-created a limited edition collection of bold door hardware that celebrates the joy in the unexpected.

Introducing Super Collection.

The Bankston + Sans-Arc Studio, Super Collection largely draws inspiration from the Radical Design Movement of the 1960s, a period that heralded a new way of thinking, encouraging daring explorations of shape, colour and material.

These principles have served as the foundation of the Bankston + Sans-Arc Super Collection and are reflected in each product. Playful geometric abstractions and unique forms are balanced with highly functional design, delivering a range that feels both usable, yet is highly expressive.
